

New statement that needs to be included in DARPA proposals in the scope of work:

“This is a fundamental research project that is not expected to produce any developmental items. Should any developmental items result from this work they will have both civilian and military applications.”